OUR WASHINGTON LETTER.

THE POSTAL BILL AND ITS FEATURES—THE ANIMUS OF ITS CRITICS—FACTS FOR THE PEOPLE TO CONSIDER—MR. BLAINE STRENGTHENED BY ATTACKS—HUNTING THE PRISONS FOR WITNESSES FOR THE SCANDAL BUREAU—A NAVAL CADETSHIP FOR THIS DISTRICT—NO PROSPECT OF ADJOURNMENT.

WASHINGTON, April 13, 1876.

It seems to be impossible for any class of people within the scope of our vast humanity to consider a question candidly, in which they have any sort of pecuniary interest. This is shown in a very pointed manner in the criticism on the contemplated change in the postal laws now generally known as the Hamlin bill. In this question of postage, the newspapers of this country are interested to the amount of at least seven millions of dollars, which is the difference between what they pay now and what they would pay were the rates such as to require them to pay the full expense of their transportation and handling. This class do not consider it worth while to present their case before the committee and answer its questions, thus giving necessary information, but they prefer, rather to let the case go by default, and subject the committee to unfair, ignorant and prejudiced criticism afterward. No one of the interests involved in these questions can see beyond its own particular case. The publishing house wants its books carried to the purchaser at Government expense, the dry goods merchant desires to send his wares with equal privilege, the country justice complains bitterly that he cannot have his blanks sent at half the cost—making to him a possible difference of ten cents a year—the metropolitan newspaper publisher insists upon sending his wares to his customers at a mere nominal price, and they all cry aloud at any suggestion of graduating the ... to distance. The country editor takes up the cry, ignorant of the fact that he is thereby crippling his own circulation in the interest of the metropolitan journals, in these days of fast mail trains, and the rural merchant echoes the complaint without for a moment thinking of the evident fact that he is encouraging his customers to deal directly with the New York and Boston importer and have his goods transported at Government expense. The farmer cannot send his corn, wheat or pork, by mail and every time he writes a social or business letter to his absent son or daughter he pays a portion of the profit of $1,000,000 now derived from first class matter and swallowed up by the second and third classes. Is it not a strange thing to see in this arrangement that class of matter for the transmission of which postal systems are established, taxed to ruinous degree while foreign matter that except in many years later is carried at a loss even more ruinous. Letters would pay the expense chargeable to them at a rate of two cents for each half ounce instead of three cents as at the present time, but they are obliged to pay a profit, because of the astounding deficiency of other classes.

I do not know who originated the story of the wen that appeared on the man's neck, and that pleaded for its existence when the surgeon appeared with his knife to cut it out, and afterward grew steadily until the head was pressed to one side by the predominance of the diseased growth. Everybody remembers the final claim of the unsightly thing, when it insisted that, as it was the largest, the man's head must be cut off to make room for it. That fable well illustrates the situation of these different classes of mail matter. Letters containing social and business correspondence, represent the original head, while all of the bulky matter that has since become of so much importance in the estimation of those who derive a profit from its cheap transportation is a good illustration of the wen, especially in the assurance with which it asserts its present claims. No one of these interested parties will take pains to read Mr. Hamlin's speech which contains a great deal of information which will never reach the public through those journals which claim to be the impartial disseminators of intelligence to the people. They will only circulate such intelligence as will present their own side of the case. The private citizen and tax payer has at least equal privilege by right with any special class, and it is the purpose of Mr. Hamlin if the Senate will join with him in his efforts, to reduce the present rate on letters to two cents by making other classes pay their just proportion. This will benefit the thousands whose only use for the mails is the sending of letters and who therefore are never heard from, as are the newspapers and other wealthy interests.

The bill has passed the Senate very much the same as it came from the Committee. Aside from the unanimous support of the Committee on Post-Offices and Post-Roads, Mr. Hamlin had the hearty support of Mr. Morrill, of Maine, who made one of the strongest speeches of the debate. Both the speeches of Messrs. Hamlin and Morrill abound in facts that will be of value to the people if read. The difficulty is that these official facts are not sent to the people as profusely as the newspaper versions of the other side.

THE ATTACK ON MR. BLAINE ADDS TO HIS STRENGTH.

The canard put in circulation by the Indianapolis Sentinel, Hendricks' organ, for the purpose of injuring Mr. Blaine finds not a single believer here. Even his enemies do not hesitate to disavow credit ... Blaine, it has made several friends for Mr. Blaine within the knowledge of your correspondent, one of them saying that up to this time he had doubts as to Mr. Blaine's being the strongest man for the Republicans to nominate, "But," says he, "when the Democrats begin to show such evidences of fear it indicates increasing strength." Hereafter that man is for Blaine, his only former objection being the fear that he wasn't our strongest man. Doubtless many will view it in the same light. Whenever you hear a Democrat say that he believes the story, it is perfectly safe to believe that he lies. None of them believe the story.

THE SALARY BILL.

The House is still laboring on the salary bill, probably trying to discover Sam Randall's honesty. They seem discouraged. They are evidently striving to fix their bill so that the Senate will amend it by restoring, at least their own pay to the old figures. But few important bills have passed either branch during the past week—the postal bill being the most so.

HUNTING THE PRISONS FOR WITNESSES.

The Democratic investigations are getting hard up for material. The latest is an interview with an inmate of the State Prison at Windsor, Vermont, who evidently, if the reported interview is correct, wants to be pardoned in order to testify against Babcock. It is high time that this outrage was interfered with in some way. After one of the most searching trials to which a man was ever subjected, and in which he has spent everything he had, General Babcock is again hunted by a Democratic House of Representatives aided by a squad of perjurers like Bell and Whitley, who have not only committed ordinary crimes sufficient to imprison them for life but have added thereto perjury, in their published testimony. The Senate Committee on the Judiciary have reported adversely on the bill offering amnesty in advance to these scoundrels and all fair minded men will say that they did right.

THE WEATHER

is very warm with real Summer showers. The woods are full of trailing arbutus and the peach trees are in full bloom, also the nose of the average Democratic member.

A FOURTH DISTRICT CADET.

Gen. Plaisted will soon appoint a Cadet to the Naval Academy at Annapolis, he having been called upon to do so by the Secretary of the Navy. Here is a good chance for the smartest boy in the Fourth District. Who shall he be?

NO PROSPECT OF ADJOURNMENT.

The day of final adjournment seems farther and farther off as the time passes. Opinions as to the time vary from June to September. And no one ventures anything definite as to date, all giving themselves a margin of a month or so on each guess. The fact, however, will be duly announced about twenty times before it happens, and each announcement will be different from any other. As the second session meets on the first Monday in September it is safe to predict that there will be no session on the Saturday before that day.

STATE NEWS.

Androscoggin

The Evans Rifle Manufacturing Co., at Mechanic Falls, made its first shipment of muskets on a foreign order, last Tuesday.

The Herald announces that the last vestige of small pox has disappeared from Mechanic Falls, the infected clothing burned, the houses fumigated, and the late patients are about their usual avocations.

Cumberland

At the annual parish meeting of State Street Church, Portland, last week, the pastor, Rev. Mr. Hicks requested that his salary might be reduced from $5500 to $3000. The parish refused it and voted him $5500 as usual.

Kennebec

The Journal says that Wm. R. Smith, of Augusta, has in his possession a silver table spoon that has come down in the family from generation to generation, and can be traced back to a distinguished member of the family, Gov. Dudley, who was Governor of Massachusetts Bay from 1710 to 1715. Mr. Smith's grandmother, on his father's side was a Dudley.

Hon. Henry W. Paine of Boston, formerly of Hallowell, has accepted the invitation of the students of Colby University, to deliver the oration at Commencement. Rev. Wayland Hoyt of Boston, will preach the sermon before the Boardman Missionary Society at their next anniversary.

The new republican board of Selectmen in Windsor are engaged in looking up the affairs of their democratic predecessors. The investigation will be thorough, no matter if the fingers of some democratic officials should get into the crack.

Lincoln.

A division of the town of Waldoboro has been considerably talked up of late.

Oxford.

There has been much sickness in Rumford this spring.

George W. Young, of Paris, was terribly injured a few days ago while sawing wood by horse power, by a fall, his head coming in contact with the spokes of a large iron balance wheel. His right eye, nose, and lips were badly lacerated, and the skull fractured. The surgeons in dressing the wound were obliged to remove a large part of the skull bone, so that an opening somewhere about the size of the top of a tumbler was made through to the brain, and the brain could be plainly seen moving at every pulsation of the heart.

Piscataquis.

The Observer says that Eben D. Ames of Medford, has killed during the past year twelve bears. Since he came in this town twelve years ago, he has trapped and killed, one hundred and nineteen bears, not less than three hundred mink, and a large number of fisher and other game.

Scarlet fever has been quite prevalent in Dover and Foxcroft this spring.

Penobscot.

The Dexter Gazette, the enlargement of which we mentioned three months ago, was again enlarged last week. As we said then, so now, it is a spicy, newsy sheet and we are glad to know it is so prosperous.

The Dexter Gazette says: Robert Taylor of this village, pokes his fire with a pair of tongs said to have been in active service more than one hundred years. We trust that one hundred years hence Robert will be where there are no fires to be poked.

Somerset.

O. A. Hutchins of North New Portland had his left hand severely injured last Wednesday by a circular saw in Charles H. Bartlett's box mill. He loses two of his fingers.

York.

George W. Miller of Kennebunkport lost his barn by fire upon the afternoon of the 12th inst, containing his hay, carts and utensils, a newly purchased yoke of oxen and a calf. A cow, after being severely scorched about the neck and head, broke loose, escaping through the falling timbers, and will probably live. No insurance.

York has voted to celebrate the centennial anniversary of her incorporation, and invite all her living sons and daughters to be present.

Waldo.

On Tuesday, the house of Sheldon Ford, of Northport, was entirely consumed by fire. Loss $600.

Richard Kimball, an old and well known citizen of Belmont, residing on the road to Belfast, committed suicide by hanging himself to a beam of Morrill's blacksmith shop on Tuesday afternoon. He was 67 years old. For some years he had been low spirited, and had twice before made attempts upon his life.

The Belfast Journal states that the municipal board, Wednesday, ... voted that it is not advisable to call a meeting of the stockholders of the B. & M. L. R. R. Co. to the purpose of taking ... the option in the lease with the Maine Central, of receiving forty per cent of the gross earnings of the first ... instead of the present rental of $36,000 per annum.

The Age says that Monday, a little son of Jeff Hall of Belfast, aged about 7, fell overboard from the schooner Lillian at Swan's wharf, and came near being drowned. When taken out of the water he was insensible, and only through the exertions of Capt. Ryan was brought back to life.

A Rare Medicinal Combination.

Perhaps the rarest, certainly the most effective, medicinal combination extant is Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. In this commanding tonic, corrective and preventive, are blended some of the most actively invigorating, alterative and blood depurating extracts in the vegetable kingdom. These are held in solution and powerfully aided by the best diffusive stimulant known, old rye whiskey. Is it any wonder that easy digestion, regular evacuations, a natural flow of bile, purity of the blood, and cheerfulness of mind, should be vigorously promoted by a preparation in which such admirable ingredients are most harmoniously combined and act in perfect union? The efficacy of this medicine ... the influence of malaria, is expressed ... signatures of many eminent physicians, and the expressions of confidence ... people and the press.

OUR CANDIDATE.

FOR PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES,

HON. JAMES G. BLAINE.

Subject to the action of the Republican National Convention.

THE MALIGNANTS.

We copy from the Portland Press to-day a letter from a Democrat protesting against the foolish, partisan malignity of the organs of his party, and the sentiments expressed are substantially those which are uttered almost daily by respectable Democrats in this city, who are disgusted at the puerility and venom with which the editor of the Commercial constantly dribbles out his personal hatred of ex-Speaker Blaine. The Democrats to whom we refer are strongly opposed to Mr. Blaine in politics and would be glad to secure the defeat of his party and the victory of their own; but they are unwilling to countenance disgraceful warfare, and they are intelligent enough to understand that their party is injured instead of aided by exhibitions of malice which excite the public contempt. When it has become obvious that a newspaper is so controlled by personal hatred having no connection with public interests, that its editor will publish any conceivable falsehood concerning the object of his vengeance, notwithstanding his consciousness that his readers know it to be false, the influence of such a paper among intelligent people is not worth considering, and it is simply a laughing-stock and nuisance.

When the Commercial quotes from that depraved sheet the N. Y. Sun, to tell Bangor readers that "Mr. Blaine is believed to be the richest man in the State of Maine with one exception or possibly two," it knows that the silly and preposterous character of the statement is well understood, and its motive in repeating it. It prints it simply because it found it in another paper which is throwing mud at Mr. Blaine, and he would copy any other statement equally known to all his readers to be absurd if it but contained the one element of malice towards the person hated. So, when the editor of the Commercial himself declares "Certainly he [Mr. Blaine] lives in the style of a millionaire," he means an insinuation which all of Mr. Blaine's neighbors and all his intimate friends, including many in this city, know to be unqualifiedly false. Those of our most respected citizens who have enjoyed the generous hospitalities of Mr. Blaine at Augusta in the house which he has occupied since long before he entered Congress are well aware of the entire absence of ostentation or extravagance which characterizes his living. Those who have visited his residence in Washington have found the same substantial home atmosphere, a style of living befitting a person of comfortable circumstances, but without a trace of display. We have visited Mr. Blaine both in Augusta and Washington, and while we have never failed to enjoy his generous hospitality and the rare social attractions of his home, the "style" of our entertainment has not been more pretentious than that to which we have been accustomed in many other households of friends who certainly are not regarded as millionaires. We have an impression that the editor of the Commercial does not speak from personal knowledge of Mr. Blaine's household affairs, and it is barely possible that he is not qualified to pass judgment upon the matter.

Now there is a fellow out West who has distanced the Commercial in lying about Mr. Blaine, and as we know that any failure to discover and republish the most infamous slander concerning that gentleman would be a source of life-long sorrow to our contemporary, we call its attention to the report that a rival mud-thrower in the Chicago Times has made a most lavishly indecent assault upon Mr. Blaine. Like our contemporary this libeller makes onslaught upon the private character and domestic relations of the leading Republican candidate for the Presidency, and among other things he relates a harrowing and circumstantial story of Mr. Blaine's brutal ill treatment of "his first wife," under which "the poor thing sickened and died in a few years." To be sure, the fact that Mr. Blaine's first and only wife is now living as the happy mother of a large family, impairs the effect of the story; but then the originality of the charge and the peculiarly contemptible nature of slandering a man's domestic relations, will be so attractive to our contemporary that we feel sure he will give himself the delight of publishing the "first wife" story.

As some of our readers may be at a loss to account for exhibitions of malice which find no warrant in mere political opposition, it may be well to remind them again of the real cause of the Commercial editor's mania of hatred for Mr. Blaine. Reader, just consider whether you too might not feel enmity towards one who had nearly roasted you alive over a fire of your own kindling! To be sure, you cannot fully "put yourself in his place," for you would be incapable of the act which incurred the punishment, and you would not resort to disgusting means of revenge. But the secret of Marcellus Emery's malice toward Mr. Blaine, is that having repeatedly published specific falsehoods in his paper concerning the Peck case, he was summoned before a Legislative Committee composed of Democrats and Republicans, and under the inexorable cross-questioning of Mr. Blaine, the chairman, was compelled to confess himself a deliberate, shameless and persistent falsifier. He was roasted over a fire of his own kindling and Mr. Blaine turned him on the spit. How he has since hated one of the principal actors in that scene may well be inferred from the following vivid description given by a member of the Committee:

"Emery's appearance before the Committee was a most humiliating spectacle. He "seemed like a thief caught in the act; he "grew alternately red with mortification "and livid with concealed rage, and alto-"gether was an object of pity and con-"tempt to every member of the Committee. "Mr. Blaine pressed the questions home up-"on him until he stood before us a self-"convicted, trembling, craven liar!"

The Baltimore American says that the lie against Blaine "is more than three weeks old, and that nobody was willing to take the responsibility of publishing it until it was palmed off on a very green Western editor."

THAT SMUGGLING STORY.

The sudden collapse of the Indiana canard has impelled some of Mr. Blaine's newspaper assailants in Maine to fall back upon the petty charge put forward once or twice in the Boston Post, that Mr. Blaine and Mr. Hale, on their return from a visit to the British Provinces last Autumn, smuggled goods to the amount of $1,200, principally laces and velvet. We have scarcely deemed the story worth noticing, for on its face it is so transparently false and silly that no sensible person would believe it. But since its repetition by the Post and its republication outside of New England, it may be well to say that there is not the slightest truth in the story. The travelling party referred to consisted of five persons, three of them ladies, and their entire baggage was two ordinary trunks and one small valise—rather a moderate allowance for a tour of some weeks through the Provinces of New Brunswick and Nova Scotia. They brought no more baggage home than they took away and when they reached the Custom House at Vanceboro on their return, knowing how liable stories of smuggling are to be started on men in public life, they were careful to have their trunks publicly and fully inspected. There was not a single dutiable article in them, not even the proverbial "bottle of St. John Brandy," and it is needless to add that they had not purchased a yard of velvet or a shred of lace during their tour. We saw the party as they went and as they came, and we are fully authorized to make these statements. It is proper to add moreover, that probably at no point on the National frontier is smuggling more difficult than at Vanceboro. If there be any fool in the United States who believes that two men standing before the public as Mr. Blaine and Mr. Hale do, would stoop to a petty act of smuggling, we pity him.

We cannot forbear saying here that the continued suspicion of smuggling that is suggested touching every one who makes a tour of the Lower Provinces, is a serious drawback to the pleasure of the trip, and, as we happen to know, deters many persons from making it. If a lady chances to buy a scarf or a pair of gloves in St. John, or a gentleman a travelling-shawl or a silk umbrella in Halifax, mere souvenirs of the tour, some one starts the story of smuggling, and personal annoyance is the result. We do not know that Mr. Blaine and Mr. Hale made even such large purchases as these, but we have known persons who did just this, afterwards annoyed and insulted by some one suggesting that they had been down to St John for the purpose of smuggling. We hope such silly and mischievous stories may cease.

SOUTHERN DELEGATIONS FOR BLAINE.

Our confidence that Mr. Blaine would be found to have a large support among the Southern delegations, which the newspapers have so freely awarded in advance to other candidates, is justified by the important action of Virginia and South Carolina in choosing delegations earnestly in favor of our candidate. In Virginia emphatic resolutions of preference were adopted and in South Carolina, notwithstanding a warm contest in the Convention, a strong board of delegates was chosen, and whatever reports may be circulated, it is known that the delegation is for Mr. Blaine. We quote some of the press reports from those States whose action is significant of the general tendency of the Southern delegation to Cincinnati:

[Cor. New York Tribune.]

The Republican State Convention of Virginia at Lynchburg to-day passed strong resolutions of preference for Mr. Blaine as a Presidential candidate. In a very large Convention of nearly two hundred delegates, there were only five or six dissenting votes. Of the 22 delegates chosen to the Cincinnati Convention, 19 were classed as original Blaine men, and the three others are now his supporters. It is quite noteworthy that the largest and leading State of the South should pronounce so strongly for Mr. Blaine. Thus far Morton, who has been credited with so much Southern strength, has not had a single delegate openly committed to him from the South. It is generally believed here that at least three-fourths of the South Carolina delegates are favorable to Mr. Blaine.

[Cor. N. Y. Herald.]

Later in the evening Blaine's friends forgot the annoyances of the day in the news from the Virginia Convention, which has declared for Blaine by a nearly unanimous vote and chosen delegates to Cincinnati from among his most outspoken and zealous friends.

Well-informed South Carolina men say to-night that the delegates from that State are open friends of Mr. Blaine.

[Cor. N. Y. Times.]

The Virginia Convention was a success for Blaine, eighteen out of the twenty-four delegates being in favor of his nomination, and a resolution of preference for him, instead of instruction, having been adopted. This appeared to be the most intelligent Republican Convention ever held in Virginia. It seemed to be controlled by the influence of Hon. J. H. Platt and W. H. H. Stowell, while J. B. Sener and Otis H. Russell had large influence. The platform is considered a sound one, giving entire satisfaction.

[Cor. Boston Journal.]

The Virginia Republican Convention pronounced very strongly in favor of Mr Blaine for the Presidency. In a convention of nearly two hundred members, there were only six dissenting voices. The twenty-two delegates to Cincinnati were selected from Blaine's original outspoken friends.

The South Carolina delegation is also believed to be for Mr. Blaine by a large majority, though no instructions were passed.

It is claimed here that Mr. Blaine will have more than half the Southern delegates on the first ballot.

[Cor. N.Y. Tribune.]

The Baltimore County Republican Delegate Convention met at Towsontown yesterday, and adopted a resolution declaring that, although the members of the party are divided on other subjects, they are united in favor of ex-Speaker Blaine for President. The resolution instructs the delegates to the State Convention to support those who favor Mr. Blaine's nomination at Cincinnati, and declares that his nomination "will create such enthusiasm throughout the country as to secure certain success."

[From the Portland Press, April 15.]

"ANYTHING TO BEAT BLAINE."

WHAT A DEMOCRAT THINKS OF THE MUD-SLINGING ORGANS OF HIS PARTY.

To the Editor of the Press:

I am a Democrat and do not write to tell you that I am going to vote the Republican ticket, or that I am tired of what you flippantly denounce as the Bourbon party. Such is not the case. I have voted my party ticket, and I propose to do so in the future. I have no sympathy with your crowd, and have no intention of voting for James G. Blaine if the Republicans nominate him for the Presidency.

But as a Democrat who has known Mr. Blaine for a number of years, and know something of his reputation as a business man and a citizen, I can but express my disgust at the course many Democratic papers are pursuing and have pursued towards that gentleman for several years. This is true of the Argus in particular. For twelve years it has pursued him, with the malignity of one apparently frenzied. It has accused him of almost every possible offence. The other day it unwittingly declared its policy to be "Anything to beat Blaine." [illegible]

In pursuance of this policy, the other morning, that paper headed a sensational despatch accusing Mr. Blaine with some irregular transaction in connection with the Pacific Railroad, "Struck at last," and the like. Other papers printed the prompt denial of the parties who were connected with Mr. Blaine in the scandal and stated the denial in their headlines. Not so the Argus. It did not even print the letters, but as obscurely as possible said that Mr. Blaine had received letters from the parties denying any knowledge of the transaction. They made the utmost of the charge and the least possible of the refutation. Not content with this, the editor followed the despatch the next day with an editorial ignoring the denial and adding to the latest scandal, the old Credit Mobilier charge, which, so far as Mr. Blaine was concerned, was refuted by a Democratic Committee.

This is only a sample of the misrepresentation of Mr. Blaine by the Argus and other Democratic journals. Week after week, column after column, of abuse and slander are published about Blaine.

One would think that these editors would see that they effect nothing. Mr. Blaine from being an obscure man has risen to a national reputation, and to the leadership of his party in the National House. He has been investigated, hunted, defamed and abused, yet he stands better with the people of Maine to-day than ever before, and is best appreciated by the men who have had business relations with him and know him most intimately.

Now, for policy's sake, isn't it about time that Democratic papers give up this trade against Blaine until something has been proved against him? Hasn't the man thrived on it? Isn't there a danger that Democrats will become disgusted with this constant "Anything to beat Blaine?"

MAINE.

THE BOUNDARY CLAIM.

Gen. George Thom of the United States Engineering Corps, and now in charge of the Government works in Maine, has emphatically declared in an interview that the Maine boundary land claim, recently engineered through the National House of Representatives, is a fraudulent one. He was one of the corps of engineers who established the line, and now has in his possession all the dates, reports and memoranda relating to the survey.

The claim grew out of the diversity between the boundary lines run at different times from the head waters of the St Croix to the point where such lines struck the St. John. The first line was run in 1817 and 1818, and determined by the ordinary instruments used in surveying. The second line was run under the treaty of 1842, and was as accurate as science could make it. The timber was felled along the first from the head waters of the St. Croix to near the north line of Houlton, and from that point it was "blazed" through the woods to the St. John. The engineers of the Commission to establish the line found that the old and new lines corresponded for eight or ten miles. Then the new crossed the old to the eastward, leaving a wedge shaped tract of land on the Canada side.

It was for this tract that Maine and Massachusetts made claim upon the General Government. The claim of James Drew is based upon the same ground. He claims that those he represents were actually deprived of a portion of their lands by the adoption of the new line. By agreement between the contracting parties, and to avoid continual difficulties in adjusting claims, the line was actually established on that first surveyed, and all surveys made by Maine are made with the line of 1818, as the easterly boundary.

No proprietor lost a foot of his land, and consequently no proprietor or settler has a shadow of claim against the United States. Yet the House has granted to James Drew and the people he represented $35,000 as compensation for 10,000 acres of land which was never taken.

The Portland Press states that the claims are said to be held by James Drew, formerly of Houlton, and two wealthy Democrats of Aroostook County. The bill has not yet passed the Senate and it will be overhauled in that body.

ATTACKING THE LEADING CANDIDATE.

In an article on the recent Southern Republican Conventions, the Boston Advertiser notes that Mr. Blaine has developed great strength in that quarter, and it ascribes the attacks upon him to the fact that he is recognized as the leading and formidable candidate. It says:

"Thus far Mr. Blaine leads in the Southern delegations, having made a successful invasion of what were supposed to be Mr. Morton's strongholds.

"The desperate attempt to destroy Mr. Blaine as a Presidential candidate, like that made a little earlier to destroy Mr. Bristow, will not hurt him. The ground on which these gentlemen stand is secure. Throwing mud will not defeat them. They are both well known to the country for public service and for qualities of character which will sustain them against all the character killers that may rise up against them. If Mr. Bristow should not have in the National Convention the support which the respect everywhere entertained for him has led many Republicans to hope for, it will not be because the scandal-mongers have attempted to hound him out of the field. And if Mr. Blaine wins, as there is now a very fair prospect of his winning, he and his friends may thank those who have opened their vicious attack upon him in season to have it fairly met, and broken."

A NAVAL CADETSHIP. In a letter printed on our first page to-day our Washington correspondent states that Hon. H. M. Plaisted will soon appoint a Cadet from this District to the Naval Academy at Annapolis. Our correspondent had made a similar statement in one of his previous letters, but we omitted it in publication and wrote him that we thought there must be some mistake, as the custom of throwing these appointments open to competitive examinations had become established in the District and had been followed by Gen. Plaisted in the disposal of the West Point Cadetship during last season. The repetition of the announcement by our correspondent seems to leave no room for doubt as to our Representative's intention in this case, but we are entirely unaware of the reasons which may have induced him to abandon the method of bestowal which has become generally recognized and approved throughout the country. We heartily indorsed the inauguration of a system which placed these appointments within reach of impartial competition, and it was generally regarded as an admirable method of removing all taint of favoritism from the distribution of Cadetships. We think that a departure from that system and a return to the old method will be generally regretted in the District.

The writ of habeas corpus, the sacredness of which was constantly pleaded by the Democrats in behalf of rebels and traitors during actual war, does not seem to be held in so high respect by the Democratic House. Hallett Kilbourne, having been imprisoned for contempt of the House in declining to give information which a committee refused to receive voluntarily from Eldridge, a Democratic ex-Congressman, has been indicted by the Grand Jury for the contempt on the certificate of Speaker Kerr, but the Judiciary Committee have decided not to pay any attention to the writ issued by the Court. A correspondent says: "It is known that several members of the Committee have expressed regrets that Kilbourne was imprisoned, and believe that the Constitution has been invaded by the act, yet they are now disposed to maintain the power of Congress as against the courts." And these are the Democratic champions of the "supremacy of the law."

The Boston Post regularly fills up several columns with such sensational despatches as it can glean from exchanges hostile to the Republicans. In the compiler's partisan eagerness he snapped at that ridiculous performance of the committee in deciphering Mrs. Robeson's despatch to her husband about their baby, and without seeing the joke copied the despatch with these headings: "The crooked ways of Secretary Robeson—Peculiarly suspicious official despatches." The Post needs Soothing Syrup for one.

POLITICAL AND PERSONAL.

This story about Mr. Blaine is evidently a weak invention of the enemy.—Worcester Spy.

The spring charter elections throughout New Jersey, held on Monday and Tuesday show large Republican gains in nearly every section of the State.

The South Carolina correspondent of the New York Times writes that the sentiment of the Republican party there is divided between Blaine, Hayes and Bristow, Blaine having a decided lead, and the others following in the order named.

The Jersey City Argus says that William Walter Phelps has declared in favor of Blaine.

Even the Democratic Journals say the Indianapolis attack on Mr. Blaine is too weak to merit serious attention.—N. Y. Tribune.

The recent attempt to blacken the reputation of Mr. Blaine was a complete failure. It was wicked and reckless, but not very shrewdly made, and the manner in which it was met, and in which the false charges were disapproved will make his enemies more cautious in the future.—Boston Traveller.

Mr. Blaine's rivals and their next friends had best be quite sure of their facts before spreading them out in the public prints for popular inspection. A presidential candidate can ask no better luck, in this epoch of "disclosures," than an unjust charge and a conclusive vindication.—Springfield Republican.

The manufacture of scandals against Mr. Blaine, though active, is not very successful in producing a merchantable article. Already nobody wants to claim the authorship of the Indianapolis sensation. Mr. Blaine's friends may, however, make the mistake of being too [illegible] to assign the responsibility for it where it belongs. It is not likely to pay for the trouble.—N. Y. Tribune.

The Worcester Spy thinks Mr. Bristow's strength will appear at the first or second ballot at the Republican Convention. If, as we expect, Mr. Blaine is nominated on the second ballot, it will do Mr. Bristow very little good to develop strength after that, unless it is to give him the second place on the ticket.—Springfield Union.

THE REFORM CLUB MEETING yesterday afternoon was not so fully attended as these meetings usually are owing no doubt, to the threatening weather, but nevertheless it was a meeting full of interest to all workers in moral reform and total abstinence from strong drink. President Barnaby presided, and the exercises began with singing "Antioch" followed by an earnest prayer by the Chaplain J C Bover The speakers were introduced in the following order Wm Doughty G W Richardson Wm McGlade J W Robinson Jr, B L Walker and Byron Kimball, all of the Club—all of whom were earnest in the advocacy of unalloyed temperance A duet entitled "Remember" was rendered in splendid style by Misses Hattie Rich and M. A Reynolds, and, as it deserved, received applause President Wentworth and Vice President Wentworth, both of Searsport Reform Club, spoke words of cheer about the workings of temperance in their town, as did also Vice President Powers of the Portland Reform Club Mrs Crossman next gave in a few words an account of her visit to Bath and Waterville the past week, saying that in the latter place 50 signed the pledge on Friday evening. Rev Mr. Boyd closed the list of speakers with a few convincing and earnest words as to the duty of all in defending themselves against the greatest of vices—rum, and its kindred. The singing of "Coronation" by the choir and audience closed the exercises

COMMITTEE MEETING

The Investigating Committee of the City Council met Saturday afternoon and held a long session. The first witness called was James E Merrill, of Veazie. The following is an abstract of his testimony

Supplied stone for filling in the dam Wanted to make a contract to put in a certain amount of stone into the dam Talked with each of the Commissioners on the subject My first proposition was to put in 10 000 yards ... [illegible]

... could be furnished ... Expected at first we would have to get rocks at considerable expense ... to the dam I talked with Mr Richards about Mr Morrill having a better chance to take ... Mr Morrill's trouble was on account of his reaching the dam too late to unload No man ever said in my presence that dam would have to be filled for less than $1 50 per yard No one ever said in my presence that ballasting was costing too much Expected that it would be necessary to blast 10,000 yards Thought I should have a hard time when the contract was made, but found it more favorable than I anticipated Daly told me at one time that I could not get stones without blasting for them Capt Mann told me he asked several men what they would blast rocks for, and they said $1 25 Never was informed by the Water Board what other men would furnish rocks for

Mr. Farrell was then questioned as to the character of Mr Eaton's work on the Piscataquis Railroad and other places where he had worked under him, and he stated in substance that in all these cases Mr. Eaton was very particular that the work should be done well and that he was always attentive to his duties

The remainder of Mr Farrell's testimony was in relation to the masonry of the walls at both ends of the dam In his opinion it was good and sufficient for the purpose it is needed for. The Water Board were very particular in relation to the quality of the stone used in these walls. His testimony corroborated that of Mr Washburn on this subject

Jeremiah Hayes next testified Am one of the contractors for filling dam, and am a stone mason by trade. Employed about fourteen men removing stone that was in the way The men were constantly on the dam. City men did handle a few rocks at times. Mr. Hood used to go to Mr Richards and get the time that city men handled rocks and then average it Haskell got the time on the Brewer side Mr Savage had most of the time charged He let the wood work run along so far that it was necessary to place rocks on it to keep it from floating away Didn't handle so many rocks on the West side because Richardson was more particular The scow men had to wheel the stones to checks sometimes ... [illegible]

Easter Sunday

[illegible]

The elegant and elaborate arrangement of flowers at the Third Church was very much admired A white cross entwined with beautiful flowers was placed on a table in front of the pulpit Calla lilies and geraniums stood on either side in great profusion The wall directly in rear of the pulpit was completely covered in a most artistic manner with English ivy which formed a very handsome background Rev Dr Field delivered an extemporaneous sermon full of power and eloquence Yesterday was the thirteenth anniversary of the beginning of Dr Field's work in Bangor, and he referred to the subject in a very pleasant manner, recalling many happy incidents during his pastorate

The other churches were prettily decorated and the pastors preached discourses with reference to Easter.

A military company was organized in Brewer last Saturday evening. A military company of sixty men has also been organized in Veazie Both of these will make an effort to be admitted to the militia.

DR SCHENCK'S STANDARD REMEDIES

The standard remedies for all diseases of the lungs are SCHENCK'S PULMONIC SYRUP, SCHENCK'S SEA WEED TONIC and SCHENCK'S MANDRAKE PILLS, and, if taken before the lungs are destroyed, a speedy cure is effected.

To these three medicines Dr J H Schenck, of Philadelphia, owes his unrivalled success in the treatment of pulmonary diseases.

The Pulmonic Syrup ripens the morbid matter in the lungs, nature throws it off by an easy expectoration, for when the phlegm or matter is ripe a slight cough will throw it off, the patient has rest and the lungs begin to heal.

To enable the Pulmonic Syrup to do this Schenck's Mandrake Pills and Schenck's Sea Weed Tonic must be freely used to cleanse the stomach and liver Schenck's Mandrake Pills act on the liver, removing all obstructions, relax the gall bladder, the bile starts freely, and the liver is soon relieved

Schenck's Sea Weed Tonic is a gentle stimulant and alterative, the alkali of which it is composed, mixes with the food and prevents souring. It assists the digestion by toning up the stomach to a healthy condition; so that the food and the Pulmonic Syrup will make good blood; then the lungs heal, and the patient will surely get well if care is taken to prevent fresh cold.

All who wish to consult Dr Schenck, either personally or by letter, can do so at his principal office, corner of SIXTH and ARCH Sts, Philadelphia, every Monday. Schenck's medicines are sold by all druggists throughout the country. eod2m mar1

Enameled WATER PIPE.

This pipe is enameled under great heat, both inside and out, which gives it a hard jet gloss surface and preserves it from rust or corrosion. Dr. Dana Hayes, State Assayer and Chemist for the State of Massachusetts, says: "I commenced the investigation with some doubts about your Enameled Pipe, but the severe tests which I have employed proves that it is perfectly harmless, and possesses great durability, these being the properties of most importance in water pipes."
